Computer-aided manufacturing (CAM) is the use of software to control machine tools and related ones in the manufacturing of workpieces. This is not the only definition for CAM, but it is the most common; CAM may also refer to the use of a computer to assist in all operations of a manufacturing plant, including planning, management, transportation and storage.

Joe Schumueller teaches the differences among nominal, ordinal, interval, and ratio data types, providing examples of each type. In the context of describing the intertype differences, he explains the types of mathematical operations that are appropriate for each type, and the operations that are inappropriate for each type.
